
Every line averages complete rounds over all partner profiles for one training seed; black is the equal-seed mean.
Switches are actual within-round assignment changes; round resets and initial choices are excluded.